An artificial golf course opens in Samsun, Turkey

Monday, 11 July 2016 20:11

Turkey's largest city and port on the Turkish Black Sea coast; Samsun will soon open world's first artificial golf course. The city's mayor Yusuf Ziya Yilmaz said that the 9-hole golf course will be the world's first golf course on an artificial island.

Mayor said that the construction for the golf course started a year ago and soon it will be completed. "We are building the largest 9-hole golf course in Turkey. Built on 370 acres land, 250 acres will be for golf and 120 acres will be used for landscape and recreation area. Also, there will be three artificial lakes. We are hoping the golf course will attract more tourists to the city," added Mr. Yilmaz.

Golfplan - Dale & Ramsey Golf Course Architects has designed the Samsun golf course. It will host the Deaflympics Golf Tournament in July 2017.
